Details

The district of Neelum is located within the Pakistani-administered territory of Azad Kashmir. Taking up the larger part of the Neelum Valley, the district has a population of around 191,000 people (as of 2017). It was among the worst-hit areas of Pakistan during the 2005 Kashmir earthquake. The Neelum Valley was known before the partition as Kishanganga and was subsequently renamed the village of Neelum. It flows from the Gurez Valley in Indian-administered Jammu and Kashmir and roughly follows first a western and then a south-western course until it joins the Jhelum River at Muzaffarabad. The valley is a thickly wooded[citation needed] region with an elevation ranging between 4,000 feet (1,200 m) and 7,500 feet (2,300 m), with mountain peaks on either side reaching 17,000 feet (5,200 m). The Neelum Valley is 144 kilometers (89 mi) long.
